

THE SLOANE CLINIC
press cutting

Visions of Beauty

The third instalment of Singapore Tatler's Wellness Talk provided an enriching afternoon that zoomed in on the art, science and mathematics of aesthetic perfection

THE ADAGE, "BEAUTY IS IN the eye of the beholder" has empowered many to express their personal and varied visions of physical perfection for centuries. But it is only when properly assessed by medical professionals in the field of aesthetics do women, and a growing percentage of men, truly discover the right products and procedures to achieve the results they desire.

With the aim of bringing men and women closer to their beauty ideals, Singapore Tatler hosted its third Wellness Talk, which saw over 80 women gain insights from two plastic surgeons.

Following a welcome address by editor-in-chief of Edipresse Singapore, Neelam, Dr Marco Faria Correa, consultant plastic surgeon at his namesake plastic surgery practice, talked about "facial rejuvenation the right way". Addressing the benefits of well-known procedures such as chemical peels, Correasised on the advantages of compared to newer, quicker such as a thread lift. "A face 10 years off your face and will last a lifetime," he said.

After an active question and answer session where concerns on time and maintenance routine addressed, Dr Tan Ying Chieng, consultant plastic surgeon at The Sloane Clinic Plastic Surgery Centre and visiting consultant plastic surgery department

With the aim of bringing men and women closer to their beauty ideals, Singapore Tatler hosted its third Wellness Talk, which saw over 80 women gain insights from two plastic surgeons.

KK Hospital and the Singapore General Hospital, talked about the latest innovations in cosmetic surgery.

In addition to topics such as popular beauty trends and procedures developed and favoured by Korean and Japanese markets, Tan also talked about the mathematics behind beauty, and with the aid of presentation slides, compared calculated versions of the "perfect face" of women from different parts of the world against Leonardo da Vinci's golden ratio of 1:1.618.

The delightful all-ladies afternoon tea session concluded over 12.30pm. Courtesy of Pan Pacific Singapore, but not before Grace Liu was announced the winner of the lucky draw. She walked away with a St. Gregory Spa package.

After an active question and answer session where concerns on down time and maintenance routines were addressed, Dr Tan Ying Chieng, consultant plastic surgeon at The Sloane Clinic Plastic Surgery Centre and visiting consultant at the plastic surgery departments of KK Hospital and the Singapore General Hospital, talked about the latest innovations in cosmetic surgery.

In addition to topics such as popular beauty trends and procedures developed and favoured by Korean and Japanese markets, Tan also talked about the mathematics behind beauty, and with the aid of presentation slides, compared calculated versions of the "perfect face" of women from different parts of the world against Leonardo da Vinci's golden ratio of 1:1.618.

PERTI BUKU SINGKAPUR

Dr Marco Faria-Correa
Plastic Surgery

THE SLOANE CLINIC

OFFICIAL VENUE

PAN PACIFIC
SINGAPORE

HEALTHY THINGS TO

ST. GREGORY
THERAPY • FITNESS • AESTHETICS • ACTIVE-AGEING